

ABSTRACT

A method is disclosed for controlling a capacitive mat by energizing first and second nodes of the capacitive mat with opposite polarity, forming an image on the media, and reversing the polarity of the first and second nodes.